

Noramco earns Great Place to Work[®] designation

Noramco is pleased to announce that it has been certified as a Great Place to Work[®] (GPTW), a globally-recognized accreditation that is awarded to organizations that have achieved the highest standard of workplace culture.

This accreditation was earned by attaining a minimum 70% score in GPTW's Trust Index Survey. This survey focuses on workplace culture, employee experience and leadership qualities. Our staff participated in this confidential survey and, based upon their feedback, Noramco employees have a positive work experience and feel a general sense of pride, respect, equality and camaraderie.

We are very proud of this accreditation. We have long believed that in order to provide the best customer service experience, it is essential that we attract and retain top talent while maintaining a great workplace experience for our employees. This certification clearly demonstrates that our formula is working and that Noramco is in fact a Great Place to Work.
