

Olivier Corcos

Introducing our New Strategic Projects - Business Development Manager for Eastern Canada

Announcing: Olivier Corcos, our new Strategic Projects – Business Development Manager for Eastern Canada.

We are pleased to announce the appointment of Olivier Corcos as our new Strategic Projects – Business Development Manager for Eastern Canada. Olivier will work closely with our Montreal team to strengthen and further expand our major projects business in Eastern Canada and will be instrumental in co-ordinating our national business development initiatives with our national strategic projects team.

Olivier is an experienced operations and sales professional with a deep understanding of power generation, automation, robotics and industrial equipment within the wholesale distribution industry. Throughout his career, he has continued to develop his proficiencies in new market expansion, project implementation and effective team management.

Olivier's degree in Project Management will be instrumental in his new role to ensure the strategic projects business grows its market share within Eastern Canada and that Noramco continues to be a prominent player in the industry.

Please join me in welcoming Olivier to the team and to his new role as the Strategic Projects – Business Development Manger for Eastern Canada!
